A helper on the road

White standard edition

An original simple retelling of a story Jesus told, recorded in the Gospel of Luke. No scripture wording is reproduced.

A helper on the road

Jesus told a story about a man on a journey. Some people hurt the man and took his things. He lay by the road. He needed help.

Two people saw him. They went past.

Then a helper came. He was from a group that some people did not like. He saw the hurt man and stopped. He cared for the man’s wounds. He took him to a place where he could rest. The helper paid for his care.

Jesus used the story to ask who had acted like a good neighbour. The one who helped had shown care.

The story asks people to care for someone in need, even if that person is different from them.

Many Christians learn about caring from this story. People with other beliefs, or no religious belief, may also value care.
