Theme Resilience & Change

One action is enough

Use a caring idea or kind-action plan from the earlier lessons. Choose one you planned or did. If you need a new plan, tell the adult it is new.

Your task

1 Say which is true: I planned it, or I did it.
2 Pick one way to record it: draw, add a photo-caption or tell an adult a sentence. Use your book.
3 Show who it helped or could help. Use the feeling frame if you want.

Our talk

My action or plan was ____.
It helped or could help ____.
I felt ____, or I would rather not say.

A plan counts. No home proof or new photo is needed. You may point, speak, hear a part again or ask for a quiet pause.

Drawing

Draw the action in your book. Tell, show or point to whether you planned it or did it, and who it could help. An adult may write your words as a caption.

Photo caption

Use a photo only if an adult has already allowed it. It should show objects only, with no people, names or place clues. Add your short caption. If no photo is ready, drawing or a sentence completes the task.

Scribed sentence

Tell an adult your own words. Listen as they read the sentence back. Say or show if it is right.

Feelings may stay private calm / pleased / unsure / mixed / not sure / keep private

Do not guess how another person felt. A caring action does not have to make you feel pleased. You can change a plan.
