Support for historical explanations

White paper version. Read quietly, point, write, type, speak privately or direct a scribe. You may pass. No public answer or reading aloud is required.

Step 1 choose a cause

Use S1 for treaty resentment or S2 for Nazi aims and decisions. Choose one first. Point to the event and date. An adult may read the card quietly to you.

Step 2 add a causal link

A cause helps explain why an event happened. A fact needs a link. Frame: S__ says ____ in ____. This increased the risk because ____.

Step 3 keep the trigger separate

Use S4. The invasion of Poland on 1 September 1939 triggered the wider European war. Britain and France declared war on 3 September. Earlier factors help explain how the crisis developed.

Partner roles

Analyst chooses a cause and explains its effect. Evidence Checker finds the date and source and asks how it increased the risk of war. Swap after the first link. Each learner keeps an individual final explanation. Neither learner speaks for both.

A small model to finish

Illustrative teacher-written model explanation. Attributed to no real person.

S2 shows Nazi leaders rebuilt armed forces after 1933. This raised the danger because ____. Now complete the link using the evidence.

Support and a private pause

White paper version. Read quietly, point, write, type, speak privately or direct a scribe. You may pass. No public answer or reading aloud is required.

Step 4 connect two causes

Frame: ____ contributed because ____. It connected with ____ because ____. The immediate trigger was ____. War was not certain because people and governments still made choices.

Step 5 check your claim

A date list gives order. An explanation adds why. Explaining aggression does not justify it. Avoid blaming a whole people for a government or party. Ask which leaders made which decisions.

PAUSE

You may point to PAUSE or tell the adult privately. Use the agreed supervised quiet place. You do not need to explain in front of others. When ready, choose a short private recap or the neutral date-order task. The adult will help you rejoin.

Neutral date order task

This alternative uses no conflict detail. Put these years in order: 1938, 1919, 1933, 1939. Which two are nearest in time? What is the gap between the first and last? You may stop or return to the main task when ready.

My next step

Choose one: a date and source check, a because link, or a private recap. You may plan in any language and use your usual aid. You decide whether to speak publicly.
