White paper version. Read quietly, point, write, type, speak privately or direct a scribe. You may pass. No public answer or reading aloud is required.

Use this grid beside your book. Add your own key words and codes. The adult keeps the model below covered until the first attempt is retained.

Part	Evidence to select	Judgement to explain
Causes of the conflict	Two factors from E1/E2, with the 1939 trigger.	How did their roles differ? Which was immediate, and why?
Rights removed step by step	Three dated steps in Germany, E3/E4.	What changed over time, and how did this harm rights and daily life?
Consequences	Work, education, social ties, lives and communities, E5.	Why did these losses matter? Keep differing experiences and human choices clear.
Why we remember	People, learning and responsibility, E6.	Why does remembrance matter? What can one day not achieve alone?

Connectives and evidence links because: explains a reason; for example: introduces supporting evidence; whereas / by contrast: compares roles or effects; this suggests: makes a reasoned inference; therefore: draws a supported judgement; however: adds a limit; first / then / later: marks order; it does not prove a cause.

Review model after the first attempt

Rights in Germany were removed in steps. The law of 7 April 1933 began to remove Jewish people from state jobs. Some early exceptions existed (E3). Laws passed on 15 September 1935 and later rules removed citizenship rights. In November 1938, Jewish pupils were barred from public schools (E4). Loss of work could remove income. School exclusion harmed learning and social ties. The pattern matters because it shows repeated human choices. However, these are examples from Germany, not all of Europe.

Review model only. This paragraph is newly written by the lesson author, not a historical person’s voice. Keep it covered until the first attempt is retained. Compare its use of date, place, effect and limit; do not copy it as evidence of independent understanding. Record any later revision as supported follow-up.

PAUSE and a quiet alternative

Tuesday 9 February 2027 | P2 | 40 minutes | Year A

Humanities | LAUNCH | Spring 1 Week 6 | HUM-LAUNCH-S1-W06

White paper version. Read quietly, point, write, type, speak privately or direct a scribe. You may pass. No public answer or reading aloud is required.

A private pause

Point to PAUSE or tell the adult quietly. Use the agreed supervised place. You do not need to explain to the group. When ready, choose a private recap or more time with the quiet task. The adult will help you rejoin.

A neutral task

Quiet task: put these made-up daily times in order: 14:00 club; 08:30 reading; 12:00 lunch; 10:00 break. Copy or point to the first and last. Then sort pencil and book, cup and plate, by use. No history words or personal story are needed.

Use a list in your book, type or direct a scribe. Pointing is welcome.

When ready

Tell the adult quietly. Choose a private recap, more quiet time or a later supported return. No personal story is needed.

This task does not show the history outcome. The adult records actual work and any deferred assessment.
