STAFF ANSWERS · Arrival

Standard

1. A country: A; accept pointing accurately to A on the map.
2. A continent: Asia.
3. An ocean: Japan, marker C.
4. A map choice: S, because it shows named streets in a small area. This is map selection, not permission to walk a route.

Use one tier. Keep these answers out of pupil view until after the first response.

Stretch

1. A country: India is B; the index links an alphabetical place name to its position on the map.
2. A continent: UK — Europe; India — Asia. They are on different continents in this map convention.
3. An ocean: Japan; card C says it is an island country beside the Pacific Ocean.
4. A map choice: The world map shows a large area with too little street detail; the detailed street map shows crossings. One linked reason is enough.

Use one tier. Keep these answers out of pupil view until after the first response.

STAFF ANSWERS · Exit ticket

Standard

1. A place: C; Asia.
2. An ocean: UK/Atlantic, India/Indian or Japan/Pacific.
3. A map choice: It shows street and crossing detail that the world locator lacks.

Stretch

1. Compare: Both are in Asia; India borders the Indian Ocean while Japan is beside the Pacific. Other accurate mapped comparisons are valid.

2. Direction: North-east.

3. A map limit: No; people in a country can have different beliefs, and a location marker only locates the country. A short reason is enough.

STAFF ANSWERS · teaching and routes

Starter: A. It shows countries and oceans; Japan is C beside the Pacific. B has too little coverage and C has no location map.

I do: A, United Kingdom, linked westwards to the Atlantic. Note whether the pupil follows the map or repeats the spoken words only.

We do: B → Asia → Indian Ocean. Model checking each part against the map and card B after pupils choose.

We do: 1 A; Europe; Atlantic. 2 C; Asia; Pacific. 3 North-east: Japan is higher and to the right of India on this north-up map. 4 Yes; the card gives that example. It does not say everyone in either country takes part. Accept the pupil tracing a connection and indicating some people in both places.

You do · Independent: 1 UK A; India B; Japan C. 2 UK — Europe/Atlantic; India — Asia/Indian; Japan — Asia/Pacific. 3 North-east. 4 People in one country have different beliefs, and one festival can be marked in several countries; a location is not evidence of every person's belief. 5 S because it shows street and crossing detail. Accept equivalent short explanations and accurate pointed map evidence.

You do · Supported: 1 A/Europe/Atlantic. 2 B/Asia/Indian. 3 C/Asia/Pacific. 4 Some people; it does not establish everyone's belief. 5 S; it shows named streets and crossings. Read option pairs without indicating the answer and record any adult content prompt separately from reading access.

You do · Choice: Any two complete matches from UK A/Europe/Atlantic; India B/Asia/Indian; Japan C/Asia/Pacific. A chosen card's ocean statement is a valid clue. Claim A fits; B is not justified. S is suitable because it gives street and crossing detail. Require two located places and one pupil-owned reason; accepting a chosen response mode is not the same as supplying the content answer. Record C and actual prompts.

STAFF ANSWERS · teaching and routes

You do · Aspire: 1 UK A/Europe/Atlantic; India B/Asia/Indian; Japan C/Asia/Pacific. 2 Both in Asia; their adjacent oceans differ, or Japan is north-east of India and is an island country. 3 W has useful world coverage but too little local detail; S gives streets and crossings. 4 Claim unjustified: a dot shows a country's approximate location, not its population's beliefs. The community card says some people and illustrates a celebration across countries. A concise supported judgement is sufficient; no claim about every individual is warranted.

Staff: mark I, S or C beside the You do response for actual independence, support or choice.
