Starter and method strip

Starter

Two method labels: “a claim alone” and “a claim linked to a fact and a reason”.

Question: Which label describes point-evidence-explain?

In your book: record one brief choice or reason, unless passing.

Method

Attend to one model. Locate its claim, evidence and explanation.

Using P1 only: replace the damaged paper and add the available cover. The member reports an accidental spill and offers replacement. This supports repair and prevention rather than an unexplained severe sanction. The conclusion depends on the supplied facts; a different deliberate action would need its own judgement. This models the method, not the assessment answer.

In your book: keep one useful model link or vocabulary note, marked “model”; no copying is required.

Feedback codes

VF = verbal feedback; WS = worked with support; I = independent; NS = one specific next step; E = evidence on the evidence app; R = responded: the loop is closed; // = self-edit point; ? = read this back to me.

A volunteer deliberately changes a workshop queue so a friend is served first. Two members lose their turns and complain. The change is confirmed, and the volunteer admits it. The affected members want their turns restored and do not want a meeting with the volunteer. The centre can restore turns at the next session and temporarily pause the volunteer's queue role while checking fair use. No physical injury is involved.

B1: the Christian caring account describes help across a community boundary; a Christian justice parable describes persistent requests to an unjust judge. One Christian hope account connects forgiveness with kindness and care. Some believers may use these sources to support justice with mercy; practical interpretations differ. B2: this humanist account uses evidence, empathy, discussion and consequences to judge actions, allowing revision when information changes. Some humanists may support repair and a fair reviewed boundary. These applications are supplied positions, not personal testimony.

A: permanently exclude the volunteer from all activities without a review. B: restore the lost turns, pause the queue role, hear views separately and set a fair-use review. C: remove every consequence if the volunteer says sorry. A justified alternative may be proposed. An affected person is not required to apologise, forgive, reconcile or attend a meeting. Subject criteria: a clear decision; precise case evidence with explanation; an accurately attributed source reason; a relevant counterargument and reply; a proportionate response that respects choice. Recall after first try

Keep covered until after the first try.

Last lesson evaluated the claim that fairness requires identical support. A shared rule can prevent favouritism, but the reading-guide case showed how identical small print could block access. A strong response used case evidence, a fair counterargument and a qualified judgement, while treating source viewpoints accurately.
