Staff answers and checks

Arrival

Any chosen feeling is valid. A texture has no fixed emotional meaning.

Starter

Ridges are raised lines. Either texture can express calm or energy if the maker gives a reason.

I do

CfU: Is the textured card above or below the paper? Below. If unsure, lift the paper and reset it together, then ask again.

We do

B. If A is chosen, show a gentle sweep on fresh scrap. Parallel check: to protect the next sheet, press hard or lightly? Lightly. Proceed when the pupil can choose a gentle action or direct one.

Create

Example only: I chose ridges because the broken marks feel busy to me. A different reading is valid. Record what was actually tried.

Review

A useful observation names repeated ridges, faint patches or smooth movement rather than judging the maker.

Exit

Example only: I tried texture rubbing. I chose the ridged test because it feels full of energy.

Misconceptions and prompts

Pressing harder always gives a better rubbing

Use gentle pressure first. Too much force can tear the paper or hide texture.

Every pupil must touch a rough surface

Looking, directing an adult or using a silent movement texture is valid.

The same texture means the same feeling to everyone

Ask the maker for their meaning and reason.

Cold call with choice of response

Foundation: Point to the next step or a feature you chose.

Middle: What did you keep or change, and why?

Higher: How does this choice support your intended effect, and what still needs checking?

Adult evidence rule

Keep actual tests or versions, the pupil choice and reason, dated arts-log entry and actual support. A precise confirmed witness note is valid for performance or directed work. Do not prefill model answers as pupil evidence.
