Invented concerns and support roles

All stories are made up. No unkind words or private details are shown. Use these stories for class work. No real story is needed.

A A repeated unkind reply

A young person sees repeated unkind replies about a craft task in an invented group chat. No unkind words are shown. They stop replying and want help.

B A shared routine note

A young person learns that a note with their routine was shared online without asking. No routine details are shown. They want help to limit the sharing.

C A worry about a new routine

A young person has felt worried about a new routine for a while. It makes daily tasks hard. They want to tell an adult but are not sure how to start.

Who could help

Support role	How they could help
School staff	A teacher, teaching assistant or safeguarding lead can listen and use the school help route.
A trusted adult outside school	A parent or carer, or another safe adult, can listen and help find support.
A family doctor	Can discuss health concerns and suitable care.
A suitable helpline	Can listen and give advice. Ask staff to help find a route suited to the person's age and need.

Reporting and what may happen next

Step 1

Stop replying or sharing if something online causes concern. Move away from it if needed.

Step 2

Tell trusted school staff or another trusted adult privately. Use words, a note, HELP or a usual aid.

Step 3

With adult help, use a report tool on the item or account where suitable. Say which rule or problem fits, using facts. Block or mute may help too.

Step 4

Do not forward, download or copy harmful or private content to prove it. Let trusted staff guide any safe record through school procedure.

Step 5

Ask what will happen next and when to check back. If the first adult is unavailable or help is not enough, ask another trusted adult.

After telling an adult

The adult should listen, take the concern seriously and explain the next step. They may share it with people who can help keep someone safe. They cannot promise a secret.

After an online report

The report tool may send a reply or check the content. It may take time or not solve the concern. Ask trusted adults again if help is not enough. For an urgent safety concern, get adult help at once; do not wait for an online reply.

Model A

Repeated unkind replies may affect wellbeing. School staff can listen, follow the school route and help use report or block tools. The learner can ask what comes next and when to check back. They could ask: Can we talk in private? I need help with unkind replies.

Staff note: support blank spaces without pressing. Do not collect, photograph, display, compare or copy this card. Any disclosure goes to the safeguarding lead through school procedure.

Two equal task choices

Make a report map for B or a support note for C. Use the same checks: concern, school and outside roles, private opener, safe action, what next and asking again. For the online step use the story or model A; C need not be an online worry. Use a book, Type instead, an aid or exact scribe.

Help and a quiet pause

Point to HELP or ask a trusted adult in private. You can pass or use the pause signal agreed with staff. An adult supports the known safe route. No public reason is needed. Do not leave alone. Return with support, use a calm task or catch up privately.
