Teacher and cover plan

A piece with my new texture

Weekly outcome verbatim: Try a new expressive technique.

Year A · Resilience & Change · Explore · BUILD Weekly Spring row 91

40 minutes: Arrival 3; Starter 3; I do 6; We do 6; Create 14; Review 5; Exit 3. Tidy in the final two Review minutes. Demonstration, route and stretch tasks use time within these stages.

Prepare

For four pupils: four retained trial sets, four books or arts logs, four small sheets plus spare thin paper, four broad wax crayons and four clear table spaces.

Provide four clean pieces of ridged card and four smooth pieces of card, with safe edges. Shared trays can be used in pairs. No cutting tools, wet paint or adhesive are needed.

Prepare two small real rubbings for demonstration, four storage trays and spare paper. Check that the surfaces give a visible mark before teaching.

No-materials route: seated or standing silent hand movement. No device, body contact or personal story is required.

If prior work is missing

If prior work is missing, offer a brief honest restart: choose an invented idea and a small achievable form, state a first step and needed tools or no-materials route, then make a first version. Date it today and label it a new start. Do not claim missing earlier evidence.

Arrival and starter

Arrival · 3 minutes

Say and do: Retrieve the real tests and confirmed reason. If absent or missing, make two tiny tests now with adult help; record them as today rather than inventing earlier work. Offer the same silent movement route.

Look for: Pupil reconnects with a real choice or makes an honest new start.

Materials-free: Recall or repeat the witnessed smooth and stop-start motions. Pupil confirms the choice.

Check and response: A new start is valid. Do not claim an earlier trial without evidence.

Starter · 3 minutes

Say and do: Compare the two tests. Ask the pupil to name or show one feature and a reason. A change of idea is allowed and goes in the log.

Look for: Pupil links a visible or movement feature to an intended feeling.

Materials-free: Pupil chooses a silent movement texture and an invented feeling.

Check and response: The maker chooses meaning. Busy marks can feel joyful, tense or something else.

Demonstration and shared practice

I do · 6 minutes

Say and do: My invented idea is energy settling down. On one small sheet I rub a ridged patch on the left and a lighter patch on the right, leaving a gap. I keep the same crayon so I can see texture and pressure. I look back at my tests. I keep the left patch and lighten the right because I want less busy marks at the end. I use the side of the crayon, with fingers outside the rubbing area. This is one adult idea, not a design to copy.

Look for: Adult shows the technique, a deliberate choice and a small change; the pupil can make a different arrangement.

Materials-free: Show stop-start movement, hold still for two counts, then a smooth glide and hold. Explain the shift in texture. Use a comfortable range or direct the adult.

Check and response: CfU: How is this made: drawing each ridge, or rubbing over card under the paper? Rubbing over card. Re-show if needed.

We do · 6 minutes

Say and do: Let pupils direct the class trial. Change the pressure or space, not every feature at once. Hinge: an adult likes a different layout. A: the pupil must copy it; B: the pupil can keep their own choice and explain.

Look for: Pupil retains ownership and selects B.

Materials-free: Pupil directs a smaller movement or a longer still pause and chooses its effect.

Check and response: B. If A, model listening to advice then choosing. Parallel check: may two makers choose different textures for calm? Yes.

Making and evidence

Create · 14 minutes

Say and do: Use one small sheet. Place safe card beneath it and rub gently with the side of the crayon. Make two areas with a chosen space or pressure difference. A pupil may use just one texture deliberately. Stop before paper tears. Ask the pupil to choose one keep-or-change decision; do not make that decision for them. Record whether the piece is finished or still in progress.

Look for: A small original piece shows an intentional use of rubbing and a reasoned choice, or a witnessed movement piece shows contrasting movement textures.

Materials-free: Use or direct a short silent sequence: one texture, a still pose, a second texture, then stop. Choose the size or pace. Record the real sequence and the pupil meaning.

Check and response: Example only: I kept the rough patch and made the next one light because I wanted the energy to fade. A one-texture piece can also be deliberate.

Review and exit

Review · 5 minutes

Say and do: Ask the maker whether the piece matches their idea. A listener notices one feature without guessing personal feelings. Use the last two minutes to collect crayons and card, remove scraps and store the work flat.

Look for: Pupil confirms one decision and the real completion stage.

Materials-free: Pupil repeats or directs the final movement once. Adult reads the description back for correction.

Check and response: Keep and change are both valid when the reason relates to the intended effect.

Exit · 3 minutes

Say and do: Retain the earlier tests with the actual piece or witness note. Record date, technique, choice, change and help. The pupil checks any scribed words. Do not claim rubbing for a movement-only response.

Look for: The record distinguishes tests, actual piece and a next step.

Materials-free: Use a confirmed oral entry; record at the next available opportunity.

Check and response: Example only: I made a silent texture sequence. I changed the last move to a smooth glide to show calm.

Access and adult support

Cognition And Learning

Give one step at a time, point to the current instruction and model the first step only. Keep the plan or test visible. Check understanding by asking the pupil to show the next step.

Communication And Interaction

Allow pointing, sign, speech, gesture or an adult scribe. Give processing time. Read scribed words back for confirmation. Use I chose ... because ... .

SEMH

Use invented or abstract ideas. Offer a quiet pause, private audience and a clear return cue. No personal disclosure, forced touch or public performance.

Sensory And Physical

Offer seated silent movement, larger comfortable actions or pupil-directed adult making. Allow looking without touch. Keep sounds below talking volume.

EAL

Plan in any language. Model the key words with objects or gestures; accept a drawing or oral sequence before fuller sentences.

Prompt ladder

1. Point to the place or instruction. 2. Ask a short question. 3. Rephrase. 4. Offer a scaffold or choice. 5. Model the first step only, then return the task.

TA focus

I do: Point to the demonstrated step. Check understanding without choosing the pupil meaning.

We do: Ask for a pupil choice, allow thinking time and use the least help needed.

Independent: Support access, retain actual work or a precise witness note, and confirm the pupil words and support used.

Where this leads

Artists and designers test a method, follow and adapt a plan, and explain choices to other people.
