Use the case detail. A made-up case is not a real person's story.

This is a short adapted story from a Christian text.

A traveller was hurt on a road. Two people passed by. Another person stopped to help. The helper cared for the traveller and took them to a place to rest. The helper paid a host to give more care.

In this story, the person who showed care acted as a neighbour. Some Christians use this story to think about care. People in one faith can have different views.

Made-up community story: A visitor at a craft club cannot read the small words on a card. They ask for larger print. A helper brings the larger-print card and asks if it suits them. The visitor says yes.
