STAFF ANSWERS

Arrival · Supported

1. Belief in the central teacher rising from death/new life.
2. Care or kindness.
3. No.
4. Yes; accept a sensible prior idea.

Arrival · Standard

1. It linked the central teacher's rising from death/new life with renewed hope.
2. Kindness and care for people in need.
3. No new safe room or completed solution had been established in the case.
4. It can express a source idea or interpretation without being a universal rule; accept a sensible bridge idea.

Arrival · Stretch

1. This Christian account links its belief in new life with hope; the pupil need not agree or state a belief.
2. The account still urges care, and the practical need may remain.
3. The source offers hope and calls for care, not proof that every hard situation or pain ends.
4. An interpretation can be meaningful without determining every future event; accept a sensible prior distinction.

Exit · Supported

1. Trust/help-seeking with the frightened travellers, or persistence with the repeated requests.
2. No; these are particular sacred-text accounts, not a guarantee of outcomes.

Exit · Standard

1. X turns to the teacher for help/trust; Y repeatedly seeks justice/persists.
2. They do not prove faith controls weather or that persistence always secures justice.

Exit · Stretch

1. Source-linked trust/help-seeking versus persistence, without ranking.

2. The accounts express religious meaning; they do not establish a rule predicting every real storm or injustice.

Starter

Answer (adult): No. A story claim is not a guarantee about every real event.

We Do

Answer (adult): She keeps seeking justice; the unjust judge acts to stop the repeated requests. The text frames perseverance in prayer. A pupil may explain persistence while noting that injustice is not the woman's fault, the judge is not a caring model, and persistence does not guarantee justice. No prayer or role-play is required.

You do routes

Route guidance: Two accurate story details and resilience interpretations, with honest limits. A sacred-text miracle is reported as that text's claim, not a scientific result. B remains explicitly prayer-framed, without prayer enacted. Accept a qualified view; do not blame fear or continued suffering on lack of faith. C safe action may include documented requests, help or rest, never unsafe entry.

Supported and Choice retain the same essential outcome. Record only pupil-selected content. A word/phrase may show the reason; an adult-selected answer does not. Aspire is not automatic independent evidence. An accurate alternative judgement with evidence may be accepted where the question permits it.

Review evidence: keep the original response and the pupil's own edit or stated reason to retain it. Use R only after the adult receives it, names the change back and records its effect on the next step. The evidence artefact is two-story source response with limits and a safe application.
