Change and feelings task

Use a book or an aid. An adult can write your words. Keep this page to read.

Story D
A group used to draw first, then read. Today the group will read first, then draw. A young person says, “I feel cross. I liked the old order.”

Words to use
order · read · draw · cross · help

A model from story A
The time changed. They feel cross. An adult can show the new plan.

In your book
1. Say what changed. Start: “The ... changed.”
2. Say how the person feels. Start: “They feel ... .”
3. Link the two. Start: “Change can feel ... .”

You may point to the words or tell a scribe. Use the story, not your own life.

A kind next step
Words: ask · adult · first step.

Start: “They could ask ... .”

Model: “They could ask an adult to show the plan.”

Private help
You can point to HELP. Or say, “Can we talk in private?” A trusted adult can help. You may pass or take a pause.

Use this page as a private record. Keep learner work in a book or usual aid. Do not record a personal concern here.

Record	Staff entry
Learner work reference and date
Story used A B C or D
What changed in the story
Stated feeling and story clue
How the learner links the two
Kind next step if offered
Reader scribe or usual aid used
Answer cues or choices given
First response before feedback
One next step and later reply
Secure partial not yet or unobserved

Read scribed words back in private. Let the learner correct them. A pass is unobserved. A hard feeling is not wrong. Judge the link, not the feeling.

VF spoken feedback. WS with support. I own thinking. NS next step. E real work saved. R after Voice, Audience, NS and reply. Offer to the Communication portfolio.
