Online safety learning guide

Online safety & media literacy (Safer Internet Day).

Use the invented learner for class work. You can write, type, point, draw or use your usual aid. A scribe can record your exact words and read them back. No personal account or story is needed.

The invented learner

An invented learner sees a post saying the next activity is cancelled. It shows a cropped notice with no date. A second post shows an edited picture of the empty activity room. The learner pauses before sharing and asks trusted school staff to check the full notice.

In your book

Explain one privacy choice and its limit. Use one invented example to name a changed or missing detail and say how to check it. Suggest what the learner could do next and who could help, by role. Keep your first try. Use one next step and respond in the same colour, on the same page or usual mode.

A model

The crop leaves out the date and the edited room picture cannot prove a cancellation. The learner can wait and ask staff for the current full notice. Many shares would not make either post reliable.

Private choices

The personal checklist stays with you. You can use the invented learner instead, leave it blank or pass. Do not write names, account details, passwords or a private incident. Your learning check is about what you can explain, not how safe your own account is.

Staff learning record

RSE-LAUNCH-S1-W03-E1 · Thursday 21 January 2027 · P4

Use a work code, never a pupil name. Record fictional learning only. Keep actual concerns out of this sheet and use the separate school safeguarding record.
