Use these tests to judge why Rosa Parks mattered. A fact can help with more than one test. Explain the link.

C1 Changed things at the time

Did the person help change events or lives then? How far?

Separate her part from the work of others.

C2 Still matters now

What can this history help us think about today? Why?

A useful lesson now is a reasoned link, not proof she caused every later change.

C3 Remembered by many

Is there evidence of wide public remembrance? What kind?

Public honours show remembrance. They do not prove every claim about impact.

C4 Revealed something

What does her story show about unfair rules or how change happens?

Use a fact to support what it shows. Keep the shared work in view.

Scoring with care

Use the same 0–3 scale for all four rows. Add to a total out of 12. We give each criterion equal weight for this task. Different scores can be valid if the facts and reasons fit. No total has a fixed label. Scores do not rate a person’s worth or prove how many people remember her.

Quiet alternative

Quiet task: put 1, 3, 2, 5 and 4 in order. Then sort these made-up items by use: pencil, book, cup, plate. No history words are needed. This task does not show the history outcome.

Use the quiet signal to ask the adult for a pause. Use the agreed supervised place. No public reason is needed. Return with one small card check or a private recap when ready.
