Conflict and safe relationships

Aspire · Thursday 11 March 2027 · P4 · Year A

Managing conflict & staying safe in relationships.

Core ideas

• A safe disagreement leaves each person free to say no, pause or seek help.

• Calm listening may help when both people feel safe. A shared plan must be freely chosen.

• Pressure, control or fear needs adult help. The person under pressure is not to blame.

• Tell a trusted adult or the safeguarding lead. Try another trusted adult if needed. Get staff help at once if danger is happening now.

The invented model

Two invented friends plan a display. One wants to draw. The other wants to write. Each can say no without fear. They pause, take turns to listen and agree to do one part each. Either can ask for more time or adult help.

A visible reason

This is a safe disagreement. Each person has a voice and a real choice. Taking turns may help. An agreement works only if both choose it freely. If fear, pressure or control appears, stop the joint problem-solving task and get adult help.

Use the full cases in Support Cards. Reader and checker may swap, or work alone. Keep the glossary and usual aids. Use words, pointing, drawing, typing or the usual communication aid. An adult may scribe the learner's exact words and read them back. Plan in any language. Record access aids separately from prompts that supplied content.

Aspire book tasks

In your book or usual mode, use the fictional cases only. No personal stories are needed.

Task 1

Compare all three cases. Explain why the presence of choice and safety matters more than ending a disagreement quickly.

Task 2

Explain why splitting the difference is a poor response to control in Case 2. Give a safer response without blaming or confronting the worried person.

Task 3

Adapt the help plan in Case 3 if the first adult cannot listen. Distinguish urgent danger from a concern that still needs prompt adult support. Keep normal aids; no personal story is needed.

Words and frame

Conflict · Boundary · Respect · Control · Support

The story shows ___. This matters because ___. The character could ___ and ask ___ for help.

Learning self check

In your book, choose Ready to explain, With a prompt or Need another example for each learning point. All choices start blank. This is a learning check, not a judgement about health, family life or safety. Pass is valid.

- Tell a safe disagreement from pressure or control in a made-up story.
- Explain a calm next step when both people feel safe and free to choose.
- Choose adult help when a person feels afraid or cannot say no freely.

Review and help

Keep the first try. Use one next step and reply in the same colour, on the same page or usual mode. A character can tell a trusted adult or the safeguarding lead privately. If the first adult is away or does not help, try another trusted adult. If there is danger now, get urgent help. No one needs to prove a worry before asking for help.
