Enterprise knowledge and model

White standard edition

Run a sale/market stall.

Before opening

The adult confirms permission, safe approved stock, clear prices and supervision. A float is starting change money that must be returned. It is not money earned.

A kind sale

Explain the offer and price clearly. Let the customer choose freely. Check the amount received and change with the adult. Record quantity, price and the sale value, without customer names.

A checked close

Count unsold and held stock. The adult counts cash twice. Separate float from sales receipts and check the record. Report a difference honestly. Record any refunds and other cash movements separately.

Invented figures only

Invented teaching model only: 10 labelled starter-plant pots with care cards cost £7 in total. Price £1 each. Opening float £5. Eight sales bring £8. Closing cash £13 with no refunds or other movements. Return the £5 float. £8 receipts less £7 full batch cost leaves £1 simple surplus, assuming no other costs. Two units remain unsold.

Customer choice and honest evidence

The adult checks permission and stock before a real stall. Nobody has to buy or handle money. Use actual records for real conclusions. A model or rehearsal is useful practice and must be labelled as such.
