Big question: What three facts can we spot when we look closely at an artwork?

- Look closely at a bold portrait artwork print.
- Spot three clear facts: the colours, the marks,. The mood.
- Copy one small mark set section into your studio log.

Essential vocabulary

- fact: Something true you can see and point to in the work.
- mood: How the colours and marks make the picture feel.
- mark set: Shapes or lines that repeat again and again.
- card window: A small card window that helps you look closely on one bit.
- copy: To draw a small part with care so you learn how it works.

Three-step studio method

Step 1: Place the card window: I lay my card card window over a corner mark set on the artwork print.

Step 2: Say three true facts: I name the tool (pen), the colours (amber. Blue), and the mood (proud).

Step 3: Draw the close-up box: I copy just the twin mark set inside my card window into my log box.
