Knowledge organiser (TRACK) — Visual maker study and response

Pathway: TRACK · Week 6 Part 1 · Big question: How can we analyse a visual maker's use of pattern and contrast, then create our own studio response?

Core studio focus

Family: Identity and studio log

Big question: How can we analyse a visual maker's use of pattern and contrast, then create our own studio response?

• Deconstruct an exemplar identity artwork across three lenses: Subject, Pattern rhythm, and Tonal contrast.

• Create a direct observational study of a 6 cm section to understand the mark-making sequence.

• Produce an original response study that applies the maker's technique to your own personal symbol.

Essential vocabulary

• deconstruct: To break an artwork down into its building blocks (line, tone, pattern, colour).

• observational study: A careful drawing of a small section to learn how the marks were layered.

• visual response: A new mini-artwork of your own that borrows a technique or colour rule from the study.

• juxtaposition: Placing two contrasting textures or colours side by side for visual punch.

• annotation: Short analytical notes connected to specific parts of your study.

Three-step studio method

Step 1: Isolate and transcribe in Box 1: I place my 6 cm viewfinder over a high-contrast pattern corner on the print and copy the layer order in Box 1.

Step 2: Annotate the three studio rules: I add three pointer notes around Box 1: '1. Warm ochre base, 2. Deep blue interlocking rings, 3. Thick black contour.'

Step 3: Create my personal response in Box 2: In box 2, I draw my own wave-and-compass emblem using that exact 1-2-3 layer recipe.
