STAFF ANSWERS

Arrival · Supported

1. Trust or seeking help.
2. Justice.
3. No.
4. Yes; accept a sensible prior idea.

Arrival · Standard

1. They were frightened, woke their teacher and sought help.
2. Justice.
3. It is one story with a particular outcome; repeated requests do not ensure every real case is resolved.
4. People may share an aim or action while using different reasons; accept a sensible bridge explanation.

Arrival · Stretch

1. They turned to their teacher during fear; some Christians read this as trust. Keep it a text-based interpretation.
2. She kept returning to seek justice until the judge responded; the text frames perseverance in prayer.
3. The stories do not show that faith guarantees safety/justice; fear or continued hardship is not evidence of a personal fault.
4. Different grounds can support the same action; one act does not identify a worldview.

Exit · Supported

1. Care/help/kindness or attention to others' needs.
2. X uses Christian faith-based hope; Y uses a non-religious humanist basis of reason/empathy/effects.

Exit · Standard

1. Both can guide care, supported by kindness in X and empathy/effects in Y.
2. Different bases for reasons, as above; no ranking of people/capacity to care.

RE learns about beliefs, change and resilience; this activity is not worship

Exit · Stretch

1. An action with distinct source-linked reasons from X and Y.

2. A plausible change, such as checking needs or revising an unsafe step, justified through Y's reason, empathy or concern for the effects of choices. It is a proposed application, not a source event.

Starter

Answer (adult): No. A shared action does not prove identical belief.

We Do

Answer (adult): Both could support checking needs and offering safe help. A can connect care with faith-based hope; B can connect care with reason, empathy and consequences. These are applications of source perspectives, not claims about the unnamed group members' identities.

You do routes

Route guidance: Accurate similarity and difference, with a source detail for each and application to the case. Humanism is one non-religious worldview, not all non-religion. Do not claim religion lacks reason or humanism lacks care. Respectful comparison permits disagreement without personal belief disclosure.

Supported and Choice retain the same essential outcome. Record only pupil-selected content. A word/phrase may show the reason; an adult-selected answer does not. Aspire is not automatic independent evidence. An accurate alternative judgement with evidence may be accepted where the question permits it.

Review evidence: keep the original response and the pupil's own edit or stated reason to retain it. Use R only after the adult receives it, names the change back and records its effect on the next step. The evidence artefact is two-source comparison with a defended similarity and difference.
