Evidence cards

A Good questions

“What does a normal week look like for you?” “Which festival means most to you, and why?” Open, curious and about the person’s own experience.

Source: Authored classroom rules

Limit: A visitor speaks for themselves, not for everyone who shares their worldview.

B Questions to avoid

Questions such as “Why do you lot...?” stereotype people. Agree topics with the visitor first. The visitor can decline any question, and pupils may choose to listen. Do not ask anyone to speak for a whole worldview.

Source: Authored classroom rules

Limit: If unsure, check the question with an adult first.

C Jan Halliday: a real celebrant

Jan Halliday explains that she trained to lead Humanist naming ceremonies after her daughter asked her to lead a beach ceremony for her grandsons. She describes these as non-religious occasions that welcome a child. Families help shape each ceremony; examples include planting a tree or reading a poem. Paraphrased from Jan’s own public profile.

Source: Jan Halliday’s profile, Humanists UK: <https://humanists.uk/celebrants/jan-halliday/naming-ceremonies/>

Limit: This is a paraphrase of one real person’s public account. It cannot tell us what every Humanist thinks.

D Three areas

Belief: what do you believe? Practice: what do you do? Community: who do you share it with?

Source: Authored classroom resource

Limit: Not every question fits one area.

Shared investigation

1. Sort each class question: belief, practice or community.
2. Check each against the boundaries.

Work with a partner or adult, or use your own table. One person suggests; the other checks the evidence. Swap after one turn. Passing is allowed.

Move or match the cards

Cards to use
"Who do you celebrate with?"
"What do you do on a special day?"
"What do you believe happens when we die?"

Possible labels: Belief / Community / Practice
