Purpose and evidence

Practise one safe bench job, then greet, check an order and show change or a cashless tally at a mock stall. Use the same individual L7-E1 form across both periods. Retain the practical observation, checked pack or label reference, mock-sale checklist and money task.

Project learning link: [QUAL]; [AWARD] unit awards: [QUAL]; [QUAL].

This is an evidence link to the SoW. No criterion numbers or award-completion claim are added. The Communication teacher selects and maps her own evidence.

Before learners arrive

Check	Teacher record
Actual L6 checked product and method	_____
Short batch or ready-cooled product	_____
Bench job and timer for each learner	_____
Known allergies and safe access arranged	Adult/local procedure reference _____
Storage or disposal before leaving	_____

Resources and access

Use the checked recipe, original ingredient and topping packs, clean tools, PPE, timer, packaging and label master. For P6: clean props, shared scripts, calculator, a pre-counted £5 practice float per active till and practice customer coins. Use the individual form and permitted adult capture device.

SoW adaptations: role-play scripts, pre-counted coins, calculator, cashless/tally alternative and repeated rehearsal with predictable phrases. Add one job at a time, picture steps, a short movement pause, seated work, a quiet partner and an adult scribe as needed. The learner supplies the assessed response and performs the observed skill.

Sale arrangement: Thursday 3 December 2026, 13:30–14:10

Practical choice and adult checks

Choose batch production only when the actual recipe, staffing, cook/cool time and safe storage fit this period. Otherwise practise decoration and packaging with ready-cooled, checked products. Do not shorten a cooking or cooling step to meet the bell. The shared mat is a sequence prompt, not a new recipe.

The adult checks the actual ingredients, compound ingredients and toppings, then the label for that item. A new ingredient means a fresh check. Keep source packs. Pupils copy only checked facts. Keep an item out of use if anything is unclear.

Hinge: new topping, old label. B is correct. A assumes the old label matches; C guesses. Re-model the actual check before bench work if needed.

Observe each learner. Record seen alone, seen with help or not seen, with the exact prompt or adaptation. Attach a named, dated pack/label sample or permitted photo. Adults complete safety controls without crediting them as independent learner skill.

L7b Thursday P6 mock stall

Slide	Min	Action
13	0	Open with the mock-stall big question.
14	2	Private colour check, quiet partner or tally role.
15	3	Recall safe steps. Pre-teach price, float, change and tally.
16	1	Share the three I can statements and the same L7-E1.
17	4	Model predictable phrases with an adult customer.
18	5	Count the £5 float. Hinge B: £1 change from £2.
19	4	Book-first script and one practice sale.
20	16	First go six, feedback two, next go six, capture two.
21	3	Check both L7-E1 pages and money/tally reference.
22	2	Hear the learner's support need and next step.
23	0	Use the mat during retrieval and rehearsals.
24	0	Hidden reference.

Float and money answers

Per active till: two £1 coins (£2), two 50p coins (£1), five 20p coins (£1) and ten 10p coins (£1): total £5, nineteen coins. Count before and after each rehearsal. Keep customer practice coins separate and reset between learners. Use a £2 coin and a £1 coin for the first two practice orders.

Model cards only: one cake £1, one small piece 50p. One £1 cake paid with £2 gives £1 change. One 50p piece paid with £1 gives 50p change. Two £1 cakes total £2; paid with £5 gives £3 change (for stretch only, if the float can make it). After one £1 cash sale, till £6 minus start float £5 gives £1 practice sales. None is a real sale total.

Cashless/tally route: learner checks order quantity, unit price and total, then marks each item once and records the practice method. Use an adult-approved mock card; no real transaction. A tally alone does not verify a payment. Reset between rehearsals. A learner choosing this route still completes a money total.

Food and allergy controls for staff

Follow the school/local kitchen risk assessment, individual allergy plans and emergency procedures. The adult controls heat, sharps, safe storage and food release. For mock service, use clean props if food cannot be safely handled. Separate money and food roles; wash hands and change tools before switching back to food.

This pack requires an adult-checked label for every item as a project control. FSA guidance distinguishes food-business requirements from infrequent community activity. The responsible adult checks the applicable registration and packaging rules. For prepacked or direct-sale foods where required, the label needs the food name and full ingredients list with allergens emphasised. A tick list alone is not a full ingredients label.

Fourteen allergen groups for the adult check

Group	Group
Celery	Molluscs
Cereals containing gluten (wheat, rye, barley, oats, spelt, khorasan wheat or their hybridised strains)	Mustard
Crustaceans	Nuts (almonds, hazelnuts, walnuts, cashews, pecans, Brazil nuts, pistachios, macadamia or Queensland nuts)
Eggs	Peanuts
Fish	Sesame seeds
Lupin	Soya
Milk	Sulphur dioxide and sulphites above 10 mg/kg or 10 mg/litre

For cereals and nuts, record the specific type from the pack. Read all sub-ingredients and toppings. The adult assesses cross-contact and any precautionary wording. Do not guess, remove a topping and promise safety, or make a free-from claim. Refer customer questions to the supervising adult.

Before sale checklist to carry forward

Project check	Owner and confirmation date
Handlers have appropriate food-safety training/instruction	_____
Every ingredient and topping checked for allergens	_____
Checked label on every item; packs retained	_____
Display space and food storage agreed	_____
Cash-handling supervision named	_____

Communication offer and review

Offer to the Communication portfolio

Speaking: greet a customer, check an order, refer a food question and say one true charity fact. Listening: repeat an order and act on a partner's feedback. Writing: make a label, record an order total or tally and state a next step. Presenting: explain a safe bench sequence or demonstrate a stall job to a trusted adult. The Communication teacher selects the evidence and maps it against her own booklet.

Lundy and assessment for learning

L7a Space: Private check-in, an individual bench space, a seated role or a short movement pause. Voice: The learner chooses a suitable job and says which prompt helps. Audience: The project teacher hears the learner and checks food safety. Influence: Record the learner's chosen job and a change to the prompt, sequence or pack. Adult safety controls remain in place.

L7b Space: Rehearse with one trusted adult or peer. A quiet non-customer-facing role is available. Voice: The learner chooses a route and gives their own words or pointed response. Audience: The project teacher hears the script, sum or tally and responds. Influence: Record the learner's requested support and what changes before the second rehearsal.

AfL: retrieval in both sessions, the label hinge and change hinge, individual evidence checks and both exits. Repeat the model when a hinge response shows a gap. Record feedback VF, WS, I, NS, E or R only; keep the learner's response and next step. Capture in the evidence app.

Cold Call questions and expected answers

L7a 1. What do you do when the food label is not clear? Stop and ask the supervising adult. Keep the item out of use until checked. 2. What is your next safe step at the bench? The next step in the checked sequence for the learner's own job. 3. What did you change after the adult's check? A genuine change to the method, pack or label, or an explained check that remains due.

L7b 1. One cake costs £1. The customer gives £2. What change is due? £1. Count it back and check the sum. 2. What do you say if a customer asks about an allergy? I will ask the adult to check. Do not guess or promise food is safe. 3. What do your tally marks count? Items in this practice sale. Record quantity and payment method. A tally alone does not show a real payment.

CATCH-UP RECORD

Lessons 1–2 were mapped by cover to a unit the learners are not registered on; their evidence is retained as project history.

Current coverage: Aut2 W2 bench practice and mock stall, calendar W10. Actual dates, attendance, work and pending practice are recorded on L7-E1. No past performance is invented.

Change from SoW and why

The new Thursday-only timetable places both Aut2 W2 periods on Thursday 12 November: L7a in P5 and L7b in P6, calendar W10. Bench practice precedes mock-stall rehearsal. A short batch or ready-cooled products keeps the practical within forty minutes.

After teaching: learner request _____ What changed _____
