Learning outcome: Structured account + source evaluation; bank the unit award.

Assessing week | Enquiry: How can we improve an account and judge what sources show?

We have studied the Montgomery bus boycott in Alabama, USA, in 1955–1956. Today you finish and improve your own Week 5 account. Then you judge two earlier sources using new summaries. Keep what a source can show separate from what it leaves open.

You may point, write, type, speak privately or direct a scribe. Reading aloud and public answers are optional. You may pass.

Today I can

Improve my account with a reasoned change.

Evaluate both sources using all four questions.

Keep my own work and record the help used for review.

Own work with clear support

Draft Keeper checks a section is present. Instruction Checker checks what the task asks, without supplying an edit or source judgement. Swap roles. Keep each learner's own account and first source answers.

Your finish

In your book, finish and improve your Week 5 account. Keep all five parts, at least three dated events in order, explained causes and results, the separate legal case, significance and a limit. Retain the earlier draft and show one change with a reason. Then evaluate S1 and S4: what each shows, who made the card and the record or history behind it, how far you trust it for a claim with a reason and limit, and one question it leaves. Keep your own first answers before review.

Choose one route. Campaign facts and review pages follow. Use the separate Two_Source_Summaries resource for S1 and S4. Keep the model page covered until both source answers are retained.

Use the quiet signal to ask the adult for a pause. Use the agreed supervised place. No public reason is needed. Return with one small card check or a private recap when ready.

Assessing week

1 Use the five-part review and facts A–F. Read your Week 5 draft with exact adult reading if helpful. Finish it and show one change with a reason.

2 Read both S1 and S4 with the adult if needed. Use the four questions and frame. Keep your own claim, maker notes, trust reason/limit and question for each.

3 Keep your first source answers before the review model. Record help. Reply to one next step in your own mode.

Learning outcome: Structured account + source evaluation; bank the unit award.

Assessing week

1 Finish and improve your own Week 5 account using the five checks and fact bank. Retain the earlier version and explain a change.

2 Evaluate S1 and S4 using all four questions. Distinguish the teaching summary from the leaflet, rulings and later history.

3 Defend a trust claim with context, a reason and a limit. Keep a question each source leaves, and retain first answers before model feedback.

Learning outcome: Structured account + source evaluation; bank the unit award.

Assessing week

1 Keep the same account and two-source finish. Improve a weak link or overclaim in your account and explain why it matters.

2 Compare how a campaign call and a history of legal rulings help with different claims. Do not rank them as wholly true or false.

3 Explain which further evidence could answer each open question. After your own first answers are kept, revise a judgement with a clear reason.

Campaign facts for account revision

Friday 12 February 2027 | P2 | 40 minutes | Year A

Humanities | GROW | Spring 1 Week 6 | HUM-GROW-S1-W06

A–F are the factual revision bank from Week 5. No historical text or picture is copied.

A A setting and reasons for change

Before December 1955; requests in 1954

Montgomery bus rules treated Black riders unfairly. These rules had lasted for years. In 1954, the Women's Political Council asked for fairer bus treatment. Little changed. These grievances gave people reasons to protest.

Earlier learning: Week 2 S1; Week 3 C/F.

B An arrest helped set off action

1 December 1955

Rosa Parks refused to give up her seat on a Montgomery bus. Police arrested her. Organisers then called for people to stay off buses on 5 December. The arrest was a trigger, not the only cause.

Earlier learning: Week 2 context; Week 3 A; Week 4 B.

Which account part can use this fact? What link or limit needs checking?

C Many people sustained the boycott

From 5 December 1955, during 1955–1956

The boycott began on 5 December 1955. Many Black residents avoided the buses. They walked or shared rides. Volunteers and local groups raised funds and arranged lifts. Shared effort helped the campaign last.

Earlier learning: Week 2 S1/S3; Week 3 E; Week 4 C.

D A separate legal route

5 June and 13 November 1956

Four Black women continued the case Browder v. Gayle. Parks was not a plaintiff. Federal judges ruled against bus segregation on 5 June. The US Supreme Court upheld the ruling on 13 November. Legal action mattered alongside protest.

Earlier learning: Week 2 S4; Week 3 P1; Week 4 D.

E The boycott ended and buses changed

20 and 21 December 1956

After the court order reached Montgomery, the boycott ended on 20 December. People returned to integrated buses on 21 December 1956. The bus seating rule had changed. This did not end racism or every unfair rule.

Earlier learning: Week 2 S5; Week 3 B; Week 4 D.

F Why the campaign matters

After December 1956, in later years

The campaign showed how shared protest could last. Its networks and example helped later civil rights work. Parks's part mattered, but so did many residents, organisers and the court case. This was one influence among many, not the end of racism.

Earlier learning: Week 3 D/G; Week 4 C/D.

Finish and improve your campaign account

Learning outcome: Structured account + source evaluation; bank the unit award.

Use your Week 5 draft in your book. Finish the five parts. Keep the earlier version and show a reasoned change.

Part	Check your account	Cards
Background	Where, when, who and unfair rules.	A/C
Causes	Long grievances and earlier requests; arrest as a trigger.	A/B
Events in order	At least three dated events; shared effort and legal route.	B–E
Consequences	One result by the end and an effect in later years. Explain links.	C/E/F
Significance	Why it mattered, with shared work and a limit.	D/E/F

Date and link check

1 December 1955 arrest; 5 December boycott start. In 1956: 5 June ruling, 13 November upheld, 20 December boycott end, 21 December integrated bus return. Keep the legal route distinct.

Because explains a reason; as a result needs an explained effect; later marks time; however adds a limit. Use the bank cards to check the meaning.

My change is ____ because it helps the reader ____. A better account explains links, not just more dates. There is no word target.

You may point, write, type, speak privately or direct a scribe. Reading aloud and public answers are optional. You may pass.

Evaluate two earlier sources

Friday 12 February 2027 | P2 | 40 minutes | Year A

Humanities | GROW | Spring 1 Week 6 | HUM-GROW-S1-W06

Use the new summaries S1 and S4 beside your book. The actual leaflet and court text are not supplied. Read all maker, date and purpose notes.

Question	What to write for EACH source
What it shows	State one claim this source can support.
Who made it	Name the teaching-card maker and the maker of the record or history behind it. Use the date and purpose.
How far we trust it	Say what claim it helps with, why, and what it cannot show. A maker or purpose alone is not proof.
One question it leaves	Ask a real question the source does not settle. Say what other evidence could help.

Answer frame

Account edit: I changed ____ because it helps the reader ____. S__: This shows ____. The lesson writer made the summary in 2026. The record/history was made by ____ for ____. I trust it for ____ because ____. It cannot show ____. One question is ____. I could check this using ____.

Do both sources. Keep your own first answers before any worked answer. An adult may read exactly; a supplied trust reason is reasoning help and must be recorded.

Trust depends on the claim. Official status does not prove every claim, and a campaign purpose does not make a source wholly false.

Use the quiet signal to ask the adult for a pause. Use the agreed supervised place. No public reason is needed. Return with one small card check or a private recap when ready.

Review after your first source answers

Friday 12 February 2027 | P2 | 40 minutes | Year A

Humanities | GROW | Spring 1 Week 6 | HUM-GROW-S1-W06

The adult retains both first answers before this page is used. Compare a reason and limit, then respond to one next step. Label later model-informed changes as supported.

A partial worked trust judgement

S1 helps us study what organisers asked people to do. It was a call to stay off buses on 5 December. Its campaign purpose makes it useful for that aim. But a call does not count who joined. I would ask how many took part and compare other records. The new card is a summary, not the leaflet itself.

Review only after both first source answers are retained. This is a newly written teaching explanation, not a source extract or a complete answer to all four questions. Later changes after this model are supported follow-up, not the first assessment response.

Check your own work

Have you finished the account and explained a change? For BOTH S1 and S4, have you said what it shows, named both maker layers, judged trust for a claim with a limit, and asked one open question?

A question must ask about something the source does not settle. Name another record or checked history that could help; no website address or live search is needed.

The teacher records what is actually seen and any gaps. Handing work in is not proof that every outcome or the unit award is complete.
