

Knowledge Organiser (GROW W7): Writing and marking the account

Humanities Aut 1 · 2026–27 · Workbook outcome: Write and assess a structured account + source evaluation.

Key Word	Definition
Modelled:	Modelled: I read line one. Claim, so I write step one starts here. Line two gives me numbers, still step one. Line three tells me what the numbers were, not why they matter, so I mark on the margin: step two would begin here.
Marked together:	Marked together: reached step one, all four parts present. Step two would start at the sentence beginning the numbers show, which currently repeats the numbers instead of explaining them.

Key Facts

- Last week you built a plan another person could write from. Today you write it, then you mark it.
- The ladder has three steps: parts present, explanation doing work, source evaluated.

Arrival Task

Retrieving the plan

1) Last week you built a plan another person could write from. Today you write it, then you mark it.

2) The ladder has three steps: parts present, explanation doing work, source evaluated.

Two ways of marking the same paragraph

Two comments on the same model account. Comment A: “Good work. Well done.” Comment B: “Claim in line one. Evidence in line two. No explanation between them, so step two has not started yet.”

Try it: find the line in the model where you would write no explanation yet. Do not write on it yet. Just find it.

We Do 1: Label the model against the ladder

Line 1: what part is this, and which step does it belong to?

Line 3: does this say why, or does it say what again?

The quotation: what is missing before it can be evaluated?

We Do 2: Annotate your own account

Everybody marks their own page at the same time. Nothing is read out until every page has both marks on it. If you cannot find where the next step starts, mark the line you are least sure about. That is a real answer and we will look at it together.

Your route

Write the account and mark the step reached plus where the next one starts.

The model

Modelled: I read line one. Claim, so I write step one starts here. Line two gives me numbers, still step one. Line three tells me what the numbers were, not why they matter, so I mark on the margin: step two would begin here.

Marked together: reached step one, all four parts present. Step two would start at the sentence beginning the numbers show, which currently repeats the numbers instead of explaining them.

Check yourself

- Check yourself: does every part of your plan appear in the account?
- Check yourself: does your explanation sentence say why rather than repeating the evidence?
- Check yourself: do your two marks point at places, not at feelings?

From the lesson sheet

Writing and marking the account

SoW: 'GROW Weekly - Autumn'!C52 — "Write and assess a structured account + source evaluation."

Learning objective: I can write a structured account from my plan and annotate it against the ladder, marking what I reached and where the next step starts.

No personal or family history is required. The model account is written for this lesson and is not a pupil piece.

Account and marking record

Write → annotate → mark the next step. Two marks, no more.

The first row is done for you, from the model we annotated together. It is in italics so you know it is not yours.

Independent Work – Standard

The account written, with the step reached and the next step marked.

Write the account and mark the step reached plus where the next one starts.

Where	What it is doing	Step
line 1 of the model	claim, stated before any evidence	step 1

Choose a route

1. I chose my own route.
2. My account is in my own words.
3. Any adult help is written on the record.

5 · Learner confirmation

I confirm this is my own work.

Exit Ticket – Standard

1) Read your marked sentence to a partner. They say back what they think the next step needs.

2) Did they name a different step? Change one mark, or one word in the sentence, so the page says what you meant. That change is your influence.

3) Next week the map and the atlas, and a different kind of evidence.
