Approved objective and source

Recognise comfort or discomfort and choose a helpful response.

Owner-approved standalone RSHE outline, 26 October 2026. The approved outline is the weekly source; no separate weekly workbook row is asserted.

Purpose and success checks

What could help a young person who feels tense?

Match a clue to a made-up story. Choose help or a pause for the person. Give a reason from the story.

RSHE-BUILD-A2-W02-E1: Two scenario responses and a selected help or pause action, with reasoning and prompts recorded.

Before pupils arrive

Print both evidence pages and the three support pages. Use stories A and B for the minimum two responses, with C and D to explore comfort and different meanings. Cut choice cards on page 2; keep story cards and the response mat available. Prepare a separate adult model. Do not take pulse readings, inspect bodies, request personal examples or ask learners to imitate distress.

Calendar and continuity

Forty minute sequence

Slide	Min	Action
1	0	Open the title before the timed sequence.
2	3	Calm arrival and support choice.
3	3	Read the fictional young person’s story.
4	0	Read the objective and success checks.
5	5	Model with a separate set.
6	5	Hinge check and brief reteach.
7	12	Individual task with the chosen route.
8	6	Record actual work, response and support.
9	4	Tidy and check work references.
10	2	Individual exit response and next step.
11	0	Vocabulary available throughout.
12	0	Hidden staff reference.

Hinge and reteach

A is a helpful response to the stated difficulty. B ignores the request for support. C treats an appearance as proof. Tension, a warm face or a fast heartbeat can have different meanings. Do not diagnose or ask learners to check their own bodies. Reteach with the uncertain-instruction card: a question or step-by-step help can fit.

Routes and task

Supported: work through two stories with two feeling and action choices at a time; read or scribe as needed. Independent: record two story responses, each with a possible feeling, a stated clue and a reason for a helpful response. Aspire: explain a second plausible response or why a clue cannot prove a feeling; add a further help step.

Use four minutes to read two fictional stories and select feeling words and stated clues. Use five minutes to choose a helpful response for each, including a pause or help action. Use three minutes to give reasons and consider another plausible feeling or help route. All routes retain two separate story responses. A different reasonable feeling is accepted when linked to the story.

Read aloud, point, scribe exact words or use the usual communication aid. Record support without treating speech speed or handwriting as the target.

Safe teaching and evidence

Boundaries

Every teaching prompt concerns a fictional young person. Never ask learners about their own bodies, families or experiences, or use a real person as the case. Read fictional cards without inviting comparison with home. No touching, body checking, forced eye contact, acting out distress or personal role-play. Allow a pass, quiet response or pause. If a learner raises a personal concern, follow the setting's safeguarding procedure; do not turn the disclosure into lesson evidence. Staff use the setting's agreed support arrangements.

Assessment and feedback

Record two distinct scenarios, a possible feeling and a stated clue for each, a helpful response and the learner's reason. At least one response identifies a help or pause action. Do not score by matching a face to one fixed emotion. Record exact prompts and later changes. No personal disclosure or demonstration of a bodily response is evidence required by this lesson.

Use VF · WS · I · NS+ · // self-edit · ? read back · R responded · E evidence in the evidence record. R requires Voice, Audience, a specific NS+ prompt and the learner response in the same colour, on the same page or usual mode. E is recorded only when actual work is banked. Record prompts and unfinished work. Blank sheets and adult models are not completed learner evidence.

Learner voice and thread tags

Space: calm seating and clear resources. Voice: an optional response about the fictional case. Audience: an adult listens or reads and responds. Influence: record any change to the task support or next teaching step. A pass is respected and does not require an explanation.

S: reflect on a fictional person's needs and choices. M: consider caring and helpful actions. So: listen to different possible responses. IL: respect a choice to pause or use a response aid. MR: respect different families and feelings without ranking people.

Offer to the Communication portfolio

A reason for a fictional person's pause, question or help choice may be offered to the Communication portfolio. Keep the learner's actual words or selected response and support used. Staff decide any mapping.
