Hinge and task checks

Two people make labels and nobody checks. What helps?

Agree roles so each part gets done. A checker finds gaps before the task ends.

Correct sequence: Agree roles. / Do each part. / Help without taking over. / Check together.

I am the checker. I count three tool and kit cards. The pot has no label. I tell the label maker and ask what help they want. They choose the words. I check again. I supported the team without doing their role for them.

I can name my role and show my part.

I can explain how my part helped the whole task.

I can explain a team problem and how we solved it.

Misconceptions

The loudest role is the most useful. Correction: Quiet choosing, pointing and checking are useful roles.

Helping means taking over. Correction: Ask what help the teammate wants and protect their choice.

Good teams never have problems. Correction: Good teams notice a gap, agree a fix and check again.

Accept a different defensible example if the pupil links it to the task. Record a pass as a pass; never guess an answer or outcome.
