Weekly outcome

Use freeze-frame/role-play to tell a story.

Today I can

I can keep first, next and last clear.

I can add one action or short line.

I can share and log a real choice.

Words for this lesson role-play: Act as a made-up person in a story.

line: Words a role says.

mime: Show an action without a real object.

pause: A short stop.

Working safely

Use a made-up story. Keep your own space. Stop on the open hand. You can sit, stay silent or direct. You may share with just the adult.

Supported

Use the lost prop plan.

Choose one short line or a silent move.

Act seated or direct an adult.

Keep one choice in your arts log.

Independent

Use or make a three-part plan.

Add a line, mime or pause.

Rehearse and ask for one clear note.

Try a change and log what helped.

Aspire

Keep the same core story task.

Try a silent version and a spoken one.

Choose which tells the story best.

Explain the effect of your pause or cue.

Drama activity cards

Model step 1

Show empty hands. Say: Where is the prop?

Model step 2

Mime looking in a box. Keep the body in personal space.

Model step 3

Pause, show an imaginary prop and say: Here it is!

Model step 4

Repeat the last part facing the viewer. Say: I chose a pause so the end was clear.

Now make your own

Choose your role. Try a short scene. Change one thing.

The adult model is an example. Your arts log must show your real choice.

The lost prop

A helper looks at an empty shelf. The helper pauses with open hands. A friend points to a box. They both look in the box. They smile when the prop is found.

What shows the problem?

How does a still pose help us follow the story?

A new plan

Two makers hold an imaginary large sheet. They stop when it will not fit. One points to a fold. They fold the sheet in mime, then carry it together with space between them.

What changes after the pause?

How does the second action show a new plan?

Make your own choice

I notice ___.

I could use ___ in my own scene because ___.

These are invented class models. They are not pupil work.
