Weekly outcome

Devise a short performance about overcoming change.

Evidence to look for

Retain a dated sequence sketch or cue record, a brief adult observation of the real performance or rehearsal, and each pupil's own confirmed arts-log words. Record the contribution, change and support actually used. A photograph or recording is optional under local consent procedures. Never enter a teacher model as pupil work.

Model responses

Teacher model only: My role was narrator. I asked What could we try? before the small moves. That helped the audience hear the group make a choice.

Teacher model only: We tested a spoken cue and a silent cue. I chose silence because the group watched the hand signal together.

Checks and corrections

Overcoming change means the character feels happy at once - A pause, a request for help or a workable new plan can show a response. The ending need not remove every feeling.

More speech makes the story clearer - A still pose, silent cue or repeated move may make a choice clearer.

The audience must guess the exact intended feeling - Ask what the audience saw, then let the maker explain their intention. More than one reading is possible.
