Contracts & the law (basics).

Problem-solving in the workplace.

Suggested answers concern invented examples. They are not learner observations or automatic judgements. Accept any safe, accurate explanation supported by the source.

Model and scenario keys

Contract retrieval: role is paper-pack preparer, arranging materials and checking the order; hours are Monday to Thursday, 9 am to 4 pm; invented gross pay is £2,000 per calendar month. Gross means before deductions. These figures describe only the fictional adult example and are not a legal-rate model.

Appropriate missing-detail questions include asking for the full break arrangements, holiday terms, notice arrangements or other leave information. The extract explicitly says these details are elsewhere or omitted. Accept an equivalent clear question linked to a genuine gap; do not reward invented answers.

Contract concept: a contract is a legal agreement. Written terms are part of it, but spoken terms and terms required by law may also apply. A written statement summarises main terms and is not necessarily the entire contract. Do not teach that only a signature creates a contract.

Scenario A: count shows one strip missing, so only one complete pack can be made with the materials given. Pause, check, ask for missing material or clarified instruction, and report the incomplete pack. Keep incomplete work separate. The learner need not enact a confrontation.

Scenario B: printed and spoken instructions conflict. Neither guessing nor automatically ignoring all spoken instructions is justified. Check both, ask which instruction is current and request clarity before continuing. Record the factual conflict without blaming anyone.

Scenario C: do not claim that an unchecked pack was checked. Keep it separate, explain the missing check and ask for help. If the supervisor is the source of the concern, or the issue remains unresolved, another appropriate adult or help route is valid.

Scenario D: reject the claim that a clause can simply remove legal rights. Ask an appropriate adult or adviser to check a real concern. No real contract is signed, reviewed or collected during the lesson.

Hinge answer B; parallel hinge answer C. Each learner must respond in their own mode. A copied pair answer is not evidence of both learners' understanding. Record exact prompts or support and a follow-up where needed.

Evidence judgement: retain an individual contract retrieval, a missing-information question and a problem/action/reason response. A spoken answer can be transcribed exactly and read back. Do not infer whole-workplace competence or completion of the unit award from one classroom exercise.

A Missing materials

The order requires two paper packs, each with one large card and one paper strip. The worker has two cards and one strip. The checker asks whether both packs are ready.

Suggested answer: Pause before saying ready. Check the order and count. Ask the supervisor for the second strip or an agreed change. Report one incomplete pack and keep it separate until checked. The worker has evidence that one strip is missing. Reporting the gap prevents an incomplete pack being passed on.

B Conflicting instructions

The printed order says one strip in each pack. A new spoken instruction says two strips in each pack. The worker is unsure which instruction is current.

Suggested answer: Pause. Compare the printed order with the new instruction. Ask the supervisor which version to use and request a clear updated instruction. Report that work is paused for clarification. Guessing could produce the wrong order. A spoken instruction may matter, but the worker needs the conflict clarified before continuing.

C Pressure to hide a gap

A partner says, 'Send the unchecked pack now and say it was checked.' The order requires every pack to be checked. The supervisor is nearby.

Suggested answer: Keep the pack separate, explain that the check is still needed and ask the supervisor for help. Give a factual report. If the concern is about that supervisor or remains unresolved, seek another appropriate adult or workplace help route. A false check record hides a problem. The worker can ask for support without arguing or making accusations.

D Unfair clause

A fictional extra clause says, 'This paper means no legal rights apply to this worker.' A learner is asked whether the sentence should be accepted as a statement of the law.

Suggested answer: No. A written clause cannot simply remove legal rights. Ask for the clause to be checked by an appropriate adult or adviser; do not sign a real document in this lesson. Some contract terms and rights come from law. Writing a sentence on a page does not make it lawful.

Checks evidence and misconceptions

Check after I do

In the fictional extract, which clause tells us the worker's main task? Is the short extract the whole contract?

The Role clause: arrange materials and check packs against the order. No; the extract says other terms are not shown, and a contract can include more than the written extract.

Main hinge

The order and spoken instruction give different strip counts. What is the best next action?

A Guess and finish quickly.

B Pause, check both instructions and ask the supervisor which is current.

C Send the packs and say someone else checked.

Key: B. Each learner chooses privately and gives a reason. If either chooses A or C, or cannot explain the conflict, re-model checking the two instructions and asking one clear question. Use the parallel hinge before independent work. If both choose B with a sound reason, continue.

Parallel hinge

Only one of the two packs has been checked. Which report is supported by the facts?

A Both packs are checked.

B No one needs to know.

C One pack is checked; the second still needs a check before it is ready.

Key: C. Look for an accurate gap and safe next action. If unsure, show one checked pack beside one unchecked pack, read the order again and ask for a supported report. Record the support; do not infer independent understanding.

Misconceptions

Mistaken idea	Correction
A contract only exists if a paper is signed.	Employment contracts can include spoken agreements and other terms. A written extract is not the whole agreement.
Any clause written on the page must be lawful.	A clause cannot simply remove legal rights. Ask for a real concern to be checked.
Problem-solving means fixing everything alone and quickly.	A safe solution may be to pause, clarify and report before acting. Asking for help is a useful action.

Judgement and feedback

Review the learner’s own reasoning, source use and safe action. Do not infer competence from attendance, confidence, reading fluency or a partner’s answer. Classroom evidence cannot prove real employment, pay entitlement or a completed placement. VF verbal feedback · WS worked with support · I independent · NS next step · // self-edit · ? read this back to me · E saved evidence · R responded. Keep the first try, one NS and the learner reply. Record R only after Voice and Audience are clear and the learner responds to NS in the same colour, on the same page or usual mode. Offer to the Communication portfolio. Staff confirm any mapping to the unit award; no award completion is implied.

Use voice, writing, pointing, a usual aid, typing or an exact scribe. Read back and correct. Plan in any language. Ask a trusted adult privately; pass, pause and return with support. No personal work or family story is needed.
