Learning evidence guide

Basic first aid & health emergencies.

Relationships & staying-safe task.

All stories are made up. Use the characters only. No personal stories, family details, accounts, appearance ratings or real incidents are needed. Pair talk is optional. No acted conflict or pupil casualty practice. Use words, pointing, drawing, typing or the usual communication aid. An adult may scribe the learner's exact words and read them back. Plan in any language. Record access aids separately from prompts that supplied content.

In your book

• Two fictional adults care for a child. Name two actions that meet the child's needs and explain one commitment.

• An invented post shows a heavily edited picture and claims that everyone should look the same. Identify one media technique and write a respectful response.

• Two fictional adults disagree about a plan and both listen. Compare this with repeated password demands and anger at a boundary. Explain which needs a safety response.

• For an unresponsive adult, explain the early call for help. Distinguish normal breathing from gasping and order the recovery-position steps for the appropriate case.

• Improve the advice to meet an angry character alone. Give a safer next step, a trusted-adult or safeguarding-lead route and one evidence location from the taught weeks.

Use the taught stories and Support Cards. State the recovery-position conditions before the six steps. Evidence is classroom knowledge, not proof of practical first-aid skill.

Learning check and reply

In your book, choose Ready to explain, With a prompt or Need another example for each learning point. All choices start blank. This is a learning check, not a judgement about health, family life or safety. Pass is valid.

Keep first work, one next step and own response. No real family, health, account or relationship information is evidence to collect.

Look for: Two caring actions that meet a fictional child's needs and one explained commitment. One identified technique in an invented post or advert and one respectful response. A distinction between disagreement and a safety warning, plus a safe next step. Correct emergency pathways, recovery-position conditions and an ordered sequence. An individual reasoned response, a trusted-adult or safeguarding-lead route, and one next step.

Offer to the Communication portfolio; staff confirm any link to the unit award. E means actual work saved. R requires Voice, Audience, one NS and an own response. Review only Weeks 1, 2, 3 and 5. The held week is neither taught nor assessed.

Listen calmly to any disclosure. Do not probe, investigate or promise secrecy. Follow the school safeguarding procedure and pass concerns promptly to the safeguarding lead. Use the separate safeguarding record; keep real concerns out of learning evidence. Privately support a learner who cannot identify a trusted adult.
