Choosing one useful offer

Plan a product/service to sell.

Gardening and enterprise
Resilience & Change

Our earlier idea

Review the first idea or choose a suitable new one.

Decide whether it is a product or a service.

Name a customer type and a specific need.

Explain a change if the new choice fits better.

An offer that fits a need

Invented choice	Need or check to explain
Starter-plant pot	A beginner needs a clear plant and care guide.
Label-and-check help	A grower needs clear labels and agreed checks.
Customer type	Describe the intended user without names.
Resources	Check materials, time, adult help and access.

A liked idea still needs a useful purpose and checks.

What the offer needs

List materials, tools, time and adult help.

Check what is actually available and suitable.

Leave unknown resources marked to check.

A paper mock-up can make the plan clearer.

A customer decision

A plan says the customer is everyone.

A Keep everyone and assume that sales are certain.

B Choose a customer type and explain a specific need.

An intended audience does not prove real demand.

Our choice record

Decision	Actual choice or check
One offer	Product or service ____
Customer and need	Customer type ____ Need ____
Resources	Confirmed ____ To check ____
Reason	This choice fits because ____

Choose one offer for this plan and read it back.

My planning contribution

We chose ____ for ____ because ____.

One resource or check I identified was ____.

Use your actual choice, not an invented completed plan.

Review and next step

Check that the offer and customer need are clear.

Keep confirmed resources separate from checks still needed.

Bring the choice into the plan card and job list.

No sale, purchase or customer contact happens today.