A trusted adult

A trusted adult listens and helps in a safe way. They take a worry seriously.

Role types

Teacher

Teaching assistant

Parent or carer

School support adult

A role is a type, not a name. A role can be a place to start. You do not have to trust a person just because of their role.

Safe help

They listen. They take the worry seriously. They help in a safe way. If the worry stays, ask again or try another trusted adult.

Story starter

Words: pupil, work, worry, help

Start: The pupil could ask ... .

Model: The pupil could ask a teaching assistant.

Use the story

For a real worry, ask a trusted adult in private. You can pass, point or ask for help.

Three ways to start a talk

Keep this card in your book or usual place for aids. Pick one opener for the story.

Opener 1

Can I talk to you?

Opener 2

I have a worry. Can you help?

Opener 3

Can we talk in a quiet place?

A quiet talk

Use a quiet place agreed by school staff. Quiet does not mean secret. Adults may need to share a worry to help keep a pupil safe.

If the adult is busy

Ask when to talk or try another trusted adult. If the worry stays, keep asking for help.

Guided openers

Words: talk, worry, help, quiet

Start: They could say ... .

Model: They could say: I have a worry. Can you help?

You can point to an opener or ask for your chosen words to be read. Your usual aids stay.

The made up story

A pupil is not sure where to put their class work. The pupil feels worried. They ask a teaching assistant for help.

A model talk

Story pupil

Can I talk to you?

Teaching assistant

Yes. I can listen.

Story pupil

I am not sure where my work goes.

Teaching assistant

We can check the right place together.

Try with a teaching assistant

Choose a role and an opener. Speak as the story pupil. You can read, point or use your usual aid. The adult can voice the words you pick. You can watch, pass or stop.

If the adult is busy

The story pupil can ask when to talk or try another trusted adult. The pupil need not give up.

Do not act out a real worry. You do not have to share one.
