

Values, belonging and the workplace

What helps people feel respected and able to take part?

I can identify two things that would help me feel comfortable and respected at work.

Use your own safe examples or the fictional case. Share only what you choose.

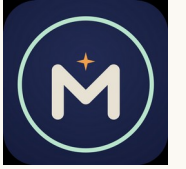

Words that help

VALUE

Something a person considers important.

BELONGING

Feeling accepted and able to take part.

Which helps learning: questions welcomed or questions mocked?

Name one useful way to give feedback.

Choose and explain.

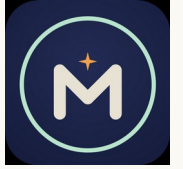

Respect is for everyone

Safety, fair treatment and dignity are expectations for everyone.

People can prefer different tasks, routines and settings.

Support helps participation; needing it is not a failure.

Should a pupil rank safety as unimportant to get a preferred task?

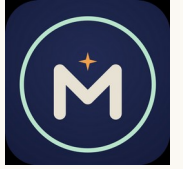

Alex's two workplaces

Alex likes practical tasks, clear steps and calm feedback.

Place A: induction, written steps and questions welcomed.

Place B: no explanation; mistakes mocked in front of others.

Which place supports Alex? What needs changing in B?

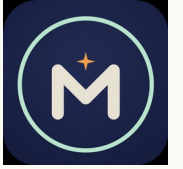

Turn a value into an action

Value: respect → listen and use a calm tone.

Value: clarity → show the first step and who can help.

Value: inclusion → offer a way for each person to join in.

What might “support” look like during a new task?

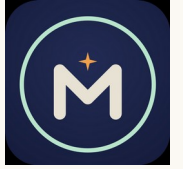

Preference or shared expectation?

A: working outside for part of the day.

B: not being mocked for asking a question.

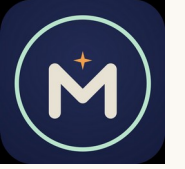

C: some variety in tasks.

Which should apply to everyone?

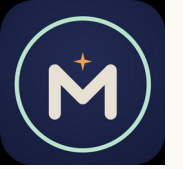

Your three tasks

1. Recognise useful conditions: Mark each as supportive / needs changing.
2. Compare Alex's workplaces: Use the resource card. Name two useful conditions and one repair.
- 3. Complete a workplace-values card: Use yourself or Alex. Name two helpful conditions and give reasons.

Use the worksheet and resource cards. Work one task at a time.

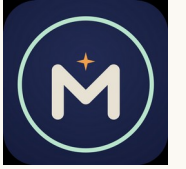

Check and improve

I can recognise respectful treatment.

I can name two conditions that help someone work.

I can explain why those conditions matter.
