

Strength and feedback cards

Lesson 1 · Strengths with evidence

Cut or read the cards. Match a strength to A-D. Sort E-G as useful feedback, optional support or hurtful judgement. Explain using the words on the card.

A · Mina spots a missing recipe step and asks an adult to check before starting.

B · Eli listens to two ideas and draws a design that combines useful parts of both.

C · Rob returns a borrowed tool and tells the group where it is.

D · Jay's bridge falls. Jay asks for a diagram and changes the base before another attempt.

E · "Your labels overlap. Could you leave more space?"

F · "You cannot do anything right."

G · "Would an example help, or would you prefer more thinking time?"

Strength bank: checking carefully; creativity; listening; responsibility; help-seeking; problem solving.

Feeling, clue and request cards

Lesson 2 · Feelings, clues and asking for support

Use the word bank to suggest possibilities for A-D. Sort E-G into feeling, action and need. Use the request bank to help a character.

Word bank: nervous - worried about what may happen; excited - eager about something; frustrated - blocked from doing something; proud - pleased about an effort; relieved - less worried; unsure - not certain.

A · Ari is waiting to perform. Ari's heart is beating quickly.

B · Noor's file fails to open after three attempts.

C · Lea finishes a difficult task and smiles.

D · Toni feels physically unwell and wants an adult.

E · "I feel unsure."

F · "I put my pencil down."

G · "Please read the instruction with me."

Request bank: "Help, please." "Can you show me?" "I need an adult." "Could we talk privately?" Pointing or an agreed symbol also count.

Makers Club: inclusion and participation cards

Lesson 3 · Belonging and having a say

Read each club card. Use the four definition cards to improve Card D. Match the situation cards to a suitable response.

Club profile · Asha likes drawing; Ben likes building; Casey likes planning and prefers written messages. All want to design a community garden.

A · The club asks for spoken ideas only in a noisy circle.

B · Asha wants yellow flowers; Ben wants red flowers. Neither is being threatened.

C · A member is repeatedly threatened and excluded because of their race.

D · The leader installs an idea box but never reads it or explains any decisions.

Space · Safe, inclusive opportunities to form and offer a view.

Voice · Information and support to express a view in an accessible way.

Audience · A responsible person who can influence the decision listens.

Influence · Views receive serious consideration, with feedback about the result and reasons.

Support menu and trial reports

Lesson 4 · Regulation: finding helpful support

Read each option. A person may choose, decline or change any option. Match an option and an adult action to a fictional report; explain how to review it.

Menu A · Notice three ordinary objects in the room. No closed eyes or body focus required.

Menu B · Sketch a repeated pattern or use an agreed focus tool.

Menu C · Ask for an agreed movement option, a quieter place or a supportive adult nearby.

Menu D · If comfortable, let breathing stay gentle and unforced; choose another option at any time. No breath-holding.

Report 1 · Rowan says noise makes the instruction hard to follow. Sketching has not helped.

Report 2 · Alex wants movement after a long seated task; a short agreed movement option helps thinking, but worry remains.

Report 3 · Kim tries a focus tool and finds its sound distracting. Kim asks to stop.

Plan frame · Need/barrier → optional choice → adult/environment action → request route → check what helped and what should change.

Help routes and response cards

Lesson 5 · Trusted help and safe choices · part 1 of 2

Read the support cards to match a fictional concern with a route. The school teacher will identify the real adults available today. No personal names are needed on this sheet.

A · Helpful response: “Thank you for telling me. I will help you reach the right person.”

B · Warning response: “Keep this secret so I do not get into trouble.”

School route · An available teacher, pastoral adult or safeguarding lead can listen and arrange support. If one is unavailable, ask another. The adult should help connect you.

Childline · Free support for under-19s in the UK about worries: 0800 1111; www.childline.org.uk. Confidentiality has exceptions for some serious safety concerns and legal requirements. Ask if unsure.

Help routes and response cards

Lesson 5 · Trusted help and safe choices · part 2 of 2

Read the support cards to match a fictional concern with a route. The school teacher will identify the real adults available today. No personal names are needed on this sheet.

GP · A doctor can assess health concerns and discuss support. Ask a trusted adult to help arrange an appointment if needed.

YoungMinds · www.youngminds.org.uk/young-person/ offers mental health information and guidance on finding help; it is not a counselling or emergency service for pupils.

CEOP · www.ceop.police.uk/ceop-reporting/ is a reporting route for online sexual abuse and grooming. For other online problems, ask an adult about the appropriate route.

Urgent danger · Call 999 for emergency help. Do not wait for an online chat or an ordinary appointment if someone is in immediate danger.

Offers, fairness and boundaries: situation cards

Lesson 6 · Kindness, fairness and boundaries

Sort A-D into respectful, harmful or needs a check. Read E-G to identify a judgement, unfair treatment or an access change. Propose safe next steps without acting out the harm.

A · Rae offers Mo a spare pencil and waits for the answer.

B · A pupil shares an embarrassing photo of someone without permission.

C · A pupil moves someone else's model to help, without asking.

D · Mo declines an invitation. Rae says, "Okay," and respects the choice.

E · A member assumes that pupils with a disability cannot contribute good design ideas.

F · The member refuses a pupil with a disability a place in the design-planning group because of disability.

G · The adult provides larger-print instructions and a spoken option when tiny print is a barrier.

Response bank · Ask first; accept a no; do not share harmful content; move away if needed; tell a trusted adult; offer optional support; ask what access change would help.

Morgan's complete learning profile - six evidence cards

Lesson 7 · All About Me: a private celebration of learning

Morgan is fictional. Match each card to a theme. Use the facts to explain an idea and evidence or a safe next action. Nothing from a pupil's private life is needed.

A · Strengths. Morgan's model falls. Morgan asks for a diagram, checks it and changes the base. It then stands. Morgan wants to explain which change helped.

B · Feelings. Before a performance, Morgan's heart beats quickly. Morgan smiles but has not said how the performance feels. A friend wants to support without guessing.

C · Belonging. The club accepts only spoken ideas in a noisy circle. Morgan asks for a quiet written-idea option. The leader can change the format but has not yet replied.

D · Regulation. Sketching has not helped Morgan follow a task in a noisy room. Morgan requests a quieter seat and the first step written down. An adult is available to help.

E · Support. Morgan writes, "I need help with a worrying message. Can we talk privately?" The first teacher is unavailable. A pastoral adult and safeguarding lead are available.

F · Kindness. Morgan offers a spare pencil. Lee says, "No, thank you." Morgan respects the answer and gives Lee space. A club member later suggests forcing everyone to work in pairs.
