Evidence cards A and B

A · Country A

Country A is in Continent 1 beside Ocean X. Place A is a local centre in the north-east of Country A. A map can show a neighbourhood or the whole world.

The world map cannot show a safe street route.

B · Countries B and C

Countries B and C are in Continent 2. Country B borders Ocean Y. Country C is an island country beside Ocean Z.

A country has many people, groups and beliefs.

Evidence cards C and D

C · A community link

Fictional case: a Place A community group shares festival greetings with a partner group in Place B. The link can involve people and communication without a physical journey.

This example does not describe every person or place.

D · Celebrations across places

Diwali and Hanukkah are observed by communities in different countries. Locate examples using the map; a festival is not confined to one country.

Do not assign a religion to everyone living in a country.

Shared investigation

Build a connection from Place A to Place B. Distinguish movement of people, goods and messages. Take a turn to suggest a match, then check the evidence.

1. Which two places are in the fictional link?
2. What is the link in card C?
3. Is that a movement of people, goods or messages?

Worked model

Ask the question

Yes, through messages or shared online activity. Use card C. Card C describes a group in Place A sharing festival greetings with a group in Place B.

Find the evidence

Card C describes a group in Place A sharing festival greetings with a group in Place B. A greeting is a message. It can travel between places without a person making the journey.

Explain the link

The groups can send messages or take part in a shared activity from their own places. Place ____ connects with place ____ through ____. The card shows ____.

Check what we know

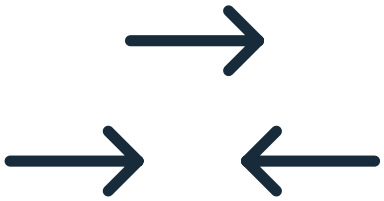

No. Card C describes two groups. Other people may have different links or beliefs. Card C is a fictional example of two groups. It does not show how all people in either place live or believe.
