Staff answers and teaching notes

Exact lesson outcome

I can put a simple career story in order and identify where someone adapted to change.

Key ideas

A job is one work role; a career may include several roles and learning. Jobs and work times may change. Retraining is learning skills for a different kind of work. The examples are invented histories, not claims about typical routes, entry requirements or likely hiring. Do not equate a change with failure or blame.

Arrival and vocabulary

Accept the matching picture of packing boxes or tending plants. Supply definitions if earlier Careers teaching is missing. Pre-teach job, career, change and learn again, then connect learn again to retrain. Read one caption at a time. Visuals are generic symbols, not portraits of the same person.

Model A

J K L M. J packs boxes; K job ends; L learns plant care; M tends plants in a new job. K is the unexpected change; L is adapting through new learning. One coping strategy is asking for help with a next step. Private model check K/L: key L for new learning.

Guided B

R P S Q. R serves food; P shift times change; S learns to pack boxes; Q packs boxes in a new job. P is the change; S is adapting. Ask for help or make a small plan are valid coping strategies. Accept other safe, relevant support steps.

Main and parallel hinge

Main key B: learning to pack boxes at S is the response to change. The changed shifts at P are the event. Parallel key A: learning a new skill can help with change. If unclear, reread the captions and contrast event with response privately. A pass is unobserved.

Individual task and response routes

Story C answer

V T W U. V tends plants; T job ends; W learns to mend bikes; U mends bikes in a new job. Adaptation is W/new learning in response to the ending at T. A learner may point to the correct card or give equivalent words. The task is ordering a story, not copying a paragraph.

Two choices

Whole set: give the printed mixed T U V W set. Two at a time: offer V/U for first; T/W for next; W/U for then; place the final U. Read captions neutrally. If the first card is fixed, record that help. Both routes meet the same goal; independence records must reflect the support actually supplied.

Coping strategy

Each learner chooses or says one strategy for the unexpected change. Accept ask someone for help, make a small plan, or agree a pause then plan a step. Give a reason if ready. These are helpful possibilities, not guarantees. No personal example is required.

Aspire

Link new learning to the next job and offer another support step. The story does not show all real-world barriers or assure a quick job change. Do not invent wages, qualifications, training lengths or actual employers.

Review and exit

One NS may be to put the job ending before the new learning, or to identify the skill learned. Retain the first sequence and the reply. Exit can give a coping strategy or correct “changing jobs means failure”. Change may happen for many reasons; the person’s worth is not judged.

Evidence and safe delivery

Assessment record

Exact evidence: Career-story sequence / resilience note. Record order and adaptation separately, with one coping strategy. Secure order V T W U; secure adaptation W/new learning. Preserve partial evidence. No response, including a pass, is unobserved. Record fixed cards, two-choice prompts, adult models and supplied answers apart from normal reading, communication or scribing access.

Typed and scribed route

Evidence Sheet page 2 has blank editable fields. Either choice can be typed. Save through the usual routine with lesson code and work reference, and share privately. Scribe exact words or selections, read back and allow correction. A book or aid is valid. No online system is needed.

Feedback and portfolio

R follows Voice, Audience, one NS and the learner’s reply. E means actual evidence banked. Add the sequence and resilience note to Careers Portfolio. Offer to the Communication portfolio. Staff confirm any accredited mapping from actual work.

Private help and boundaries

Trusted adult or the school’s help route. Point to HELP, write or ask for a private talk. Pass, supported pause and return are available. Do not ask for real family work histories, job losses or finances. Listen calmly if a concern arises, avoid probing or secrecy promises and follow normal procedures. Keep concerns out of public evidence.
