Key Facts

- A person can be special for what they do. They do not have to be family.
- People live in all sorts of homes. Every one of them is normal.
- A reason answers the question why. Naming a person is not yet a reason.
- You can talk about the example person on the card. You do not have to talk about your own life.
- Special does not mean famous. It does not mean family. It means this person matters to someone. And you can say the reason out loud.
- Two people can pick the same person. Their reasons can be different. Both are right.

Arrival Task

What we already know about people

1) A person can be special for what they do. They do not have to be family.

2) People live in all sorts of homes. Every one of them is normal.

3) A reason answers the question why. Naming a person is not yet a reason.

4) You can talk about the example person on the card. You do not have to talk about your own life.

5) Special does not mean famous. It does not mean family. It means this person matters to someone. And you can say the reason out loud.

6) Two people can pick the same person. Their reasons can be different. Both are right.

Why is naming someone not enough?

Here are two answers about the same person on the supplied card. Answer A: “The neighbour on the card.” Answer B: “The neighbour on the card, because they walk the dog when the family is out.”

Try it in your head: think of the person who opens the school gate in the morning. Now add the word because and finish the sentence. That second half is the part we are practising today.

We Do 1: Which ring? Everyone shows at once

Card 1: the person who cooks the tea at the example house.

Card 2: the lollipop person at the crossing.

Card 3: the cousin who visits at the weekend.

We Do 2: Finish the chain together

We build one chain on the board first. Nobody writes yet. Everyone puts the middle box on a whiteboard. Then we show them all at once. Then we agree a reason. The person for this chain is the one on the example card who cooks the tea. The first box is filled in for you. Your job is the middle box: what do they actually do? Write one action, not a describing word.

Your route

Two people. For each one, write the three links: who they are, what they do, and why that makes them special. Use a separate row for each person so the links stay in order.

The model

Watch me do it: I put the neighbour in the outside ring. I do not live with them. Then I say the reason. They walk the dog when the family is out. I say the ring first. Then I say the reason. The ring is the easy part.

Now watch one more: the teaching assistant goes in the outside ring too. But the reason is not the same. They read the hard words with me first. Same ring. Different reason.

Fixing it together: add the last link. Stands at the crossing, so that children can cross without waiting for a gap in the traffic. The words so that often start the third box.

Check yourself

- Check yourself: does every person you named have a reason next to them?
- Check yourself: is the reason about something the person does?
- Check yourself: would someone who has never met them get your reason?
- Check yourself: did you use the word because, or the words so that, at least once?

People Special to Me

SoW: 'BUILD Weekly - Autumn'!C46 — "Talk about my family and people special to me."

Learning objective: I can name a person who is special and give a reason using the three-link chain.

No personal or family disclosure is required. Every task can be completed about the supplied example person.

The three-link chain

Who → what they do → why they are special. The last link is the reason.

The first row is done for you, from the example we built together. It is in italics so you know it is not yours. Fill in as many of the rows below it as you can.

Independent Work – Standard

Two people, each with all three links written.

Two people. For each one, write the three links: who they are, what they do, and why that makes them special. Use a separate row for each person so the links stay in order.

Person	What they do	Why they are special
the lollipop person	stops the traffic	so I can cross safely

Choose a route

- 1. I chose my own route.
- 2. My reasons are in my own words.
- 3. Any adult help is written on the record.

Exit Ticket – Standard

1) Read one chain to a partner or to an adult. The listener says back the reason they heard, in their own words.

2) Did the listener hear a different reason? Then change one word in your chain. Make it say what you meant. That change is your influence. It belongs to you, not to them.

3) Did the listener hear just what you meant? Write that down too. A chain that already works is worth noting. It needed no change.

Lundy Loop — this lesson

SPACE stays available. VOICE is received. AUDIENCE names back exactly. INFLUENCE changes one real next action.

Space	means you get room to join in.
Voice	means you get to say it.
Audience	means someone really listens.
Influence	means something changes because of what you said.
