Pupil studio resources & worksheet — Visual maker study and response

Pathway: TRACK · Week 6 Part 1 · Big question: How can we analyse a visual maker's use of pattern and contrast, then create our own studio response?

Arrival check

When artists study another maker's work in a gallery, why do they make a new 'response piece' instead of just copying the whole picture?

[ ] A response piece takes the clever technique you learned and uses it to tell your own story

[ ] Copying a small 6 cm square teaches your hand the mark, then the response makes it yours

[ ] It shows how you connect research to your own identity portfolio

Starter visual cues

Box 1 (Learn the method): Use a 6 cm viewfinder to transcribe a small section of interlocking pattern and contour.

Three analytical lenses: What is the layer order? Where is the highest contrast? How does the pattern repeat?

Box 2 (Make your response): Draw your OWN personal symbol using the exact same layer order and colour contrast rule.

Annotations link Box 1 to Box 2.

Vote: What is the key difference between a transcription in Box 1 and a personal response in Box 2?

Studio practice planner

Link your Box 1 technical finding to your Box 2 personal response.

Shapes/Focus: Box 1: Interlocking ring study, Box 1: High-contrast contour, Box 1: Layered wash + pastel, Box 1: Counterchange grid

Tools/Methods: Rule: Warm on cool contrast, Rule: 3-stage layer order, Rule: Bold outline lock, Rule: Rhythmic dot border

Exit ticket

In an artist response page, what is the purpose of Box 2 (the personal response)?

[ ] To apply the technique and colour rules you studied in Box 1 to your own original symbol or design

[ ] To glue the original print down

[ ] To write a shopping list
