Staff answers & diagnostic guide — Visual maker study and response

Pathway: TRACK · Week 6 Part 1 · Big question: How can we analyse a visual maker's use of pattern and contrast, then create our own studio response?

Starter answer & explanation

Question: What is the key difference between a transcription in Box 1 and a personal response in Box 2?

Correct: Box 1 records a small detail from the exemplar to learn the technique; Box 2 applies that technique to your own original motif — Exactly! Study the recipe in Box 1, then cook your own dish in Box 2.

Guided team check (We do) answers

Q1: Why do we use a 6 cm viewfinder window for Box 1 instead of trying to copy the entire artwork? -> Focusing on a 6 cm square lets you match the real mark quality, layer order, and tone in 10 minutes (Yes. A small focused study teaches far more than a rushed outline of a whole page.)

Q2: Which of these is a high-quality analytical annotation rather than just a label? -> Thick black outlines lock the bright yellow motifs so they do not blur into the blue wash (Spot on. It explains HOW the technique works visually.)

Q3: In box 2 (Your response), what should stay the same as Box 1 and what should change? -> Keep the studio technique and contrast rule from Box 1, and change the subject to your own symbol (Correct! Same technical recipe, your own original symbol.)

Question: In an artist response page, what is the purpose of Box 2 (the personal response)?

Correct: To apply the technique and colour rules you studied in Box 1 to your own original symbol or design — Correct. It proves you can transfer a studio method into your own creative work.
