Then and now enquiry cards

How to use these cards

These are made-up comparison models for practice. They do not describe the open-air museum or promise what is there. Read an owner-approved extract to research the real visit. Ask an adult to read or scribe if useful. No cold calling. You may pass, point or share privately.

Money then and now

MODEL: One stall takes cash. Another stall takes cash or a card. A buyer still checks the price and chooses what to buy. Buying nothing is a valid choice.
CHECK QUESTION: How did a buyer pay, and what could they buy? What evidence would show this?
Owner-approved extract or object code: _____
What it shows: _____ What is still unknown: _____

Work and industry

MODEL: One worker shapes a part by hand. In another model, a machine shapes it. A worker checks the result in both. A tool can change some parts of a job.
CHECK QUESTION: Which task changed, and what skill did the worker still need?
Owner-approved extract or object code: _____
What it shows: _____ What is still unknown: _____

Then and now enquiry cards continued

Home life

MODEL: One home uses a stove to heat water. Another uses a switch. In both models, someone checks the water is safe to use. We only read and sketch these models; we do not heat water or use food.
CHECK QUESTION: How did a daily task change, and who did the work?
Owner-approved extract or object code: _____
What it shows: _____ What is still unknown: _____

Our tabletop exhibit plan

1. Choose one enquiry theme and one question.
2. Make one object sketch or plan which object to sketch.
3. Add a short THEN caption and a short NOW caption.
4. Keep an approved extract or object code beside each claim, or mark the question unanswered.
FINISH: one sketch, then and now captions, and a source code or open question. A neat display does not prove a claim.

Our visit choice

At the open-air museum, we want to find out _____ because _____. We need an adult to check whether this is available.
Owner to fill by hand only: _____
Our team question is _____. Our job pairs are _____. We can pitch our idea, ask an adult to read it with permission, or show it privately.
